1	04-13-2015	Marie	Sheddan	Tooradin	Australia	I feel I am thoroughly consulted and my medical needs are met through the current live video consultation process my cosmetic nurse uses
2	04-13-2015	Raechel	Forster	Richmond	Australia
3	04-14-2015	Lina	Romero	Mt Waverley	Australia
4	04-14-2015	Belinda	Tennant	Whittlesea	Australia
5	04-14-2015	Michael	Clague	Elwood	Australia
6	04-14-2015	Joseph	Ramsey	Elwood	Australia	I feel that this is the most thorough process of any clinic situation that I have ever seen.
7	04-14-2015	Joanne	Goris	Berwick	Australia
8	04-14-2015	nicole	shir	mt lousia	Australia
9	04-14-2015	Kellie	Hardeman	Melb	Australia	Skyping was very informative I felt safe and well guided by both doctor and nurse
10	04-14-2015	Simon	Rose	Elizabeth Bay	Australia
11	04-14-2015	Roisin	Murphy	Pakenham	Australia
12	04-14-2015	Penny	Polimenakos	Melb	Australia	I find the live joint consultation between doctor, nurse and patient, by real time video, to be a very informative and safe practice, and definitely current with the times. I certainly find it a lot safer than the phone orders I used to take, throughout the hospital settings!

31	04-15-2015	Robyn	Barrett-Roydhouse	Melbourne	Australia	Skype or real time teleconferencing provides patients, especially those in suburban and rural settings, with the most current, safest and scientifically validated treatment options. Proposed treatment programs would become extremely time consuming and costly for those forced to travel. Rural patients are already feeling that these proposed changes are yet another example of discrimination through poor service provision. Patients feel reassured and confident through the consulting and treatment process provided by me through AAA. They have access to medical follow up on an ongoing basis.

240	04-16-2015	Clare	Casey	Clifton Hill	Australia	I suggest a real time video consultation with a Doctor and Nurse experienced in Cosmetic Injectables and the patient using an iPad / computer with high resolution does not compromise any of the consultation process.
241	04-16-2015	michelle	kennedy	meadows	Australia	Registered Nurses in this field are highly skilled practitioners. They are more than capable of carrying out assessments and following prescribed orders from a doctor. The consultation via Skype is a way forward with modern technology & patients needs

388	04-20-2015	Tracey	King	Mt Lawley	Australia	The Medical Practitioner's role is to make sure it is safe for the patient to receive a cosmetic treatment and to ensure that the nurse they are covering is appropriately skilled in not only the specific cosmetic treatment but the management of complications in the short term. I think it is disrespectful of our nurse's qualifications and expertise to not accept video or telephone consultations. What's important is the ongoing (and often long term) relationship between the doctor, nurse and patient, not how it is achieved.

433	04-22-2015	Kay	McDonald	Warragul	Australia	Our Business is located in a country area and to be able to provide a Cosmetic Nurse Injector to service and care for our clients is crucial to our clients and also to our business viability. Removing the Cosmetic Nurse Injector from our clinic will greatly disadvantage our clients who have come to expect and receive the highest care from our nurse. From a business perspective taking the injector away from our premises will have a financially negative effect on our business's profitability. Small business in country areas are really struggling, we do not need another opportunity taken away from us.

470	04-26-2015	Anonymous	South Australia	Kingswood	Australia	I have had excellent experiences with registered nurses through out the process of re-correcting my hyper-pigmentation after getting laser resurfacing on my face by two different sergeants. The information and help I received from the nurses was thorough and informative. I feel that because nurses have hands experience and continual awareness they seem to give me solutions and indeed consequences of different procedures to correct my current facial condition. These suggested methods are also less invasive to my skin as the previous methods used by the doctors. During a consultation with an RN I feel relaxed and not pressured by time to explain and receive information about my pigmentation condition. On one particular visit I did have to go a time consuming procedures via the internet (using Skype) in order to get the authorisation from a doctor when with a RN I found this pointless as the RN was well versed on the subject.

474	04-27-2015	Daniel	McCurdy	corowa	Australia	Teleconferencing is now widely accepted as a consultation method through many medical fields, world-wide. In the rural region in which I live and work, some medical specialties are only available through teleconferencing. Cosmetic medicine is obviously well suited to video consultation. Specialised nurses are also now an integral part of our health system. Well trained nurses, including nurse practitioners, add immense value to areas such as mental health, oncology, palliative care, obstetrics and ICU / critical care. Likewise cosmetic medicine. I have found the highly trained cosmetic nurses from Anti-Aging to be outstanding in their knowledge and skill. I am particularly impressed by their dedication to standards of care and ongoing education.

561	04-29-2015	Merrilyn	Tattersall	PORTLAND	Australia	Regarding the motion in process to try and change the way cosmetic injectables are administered, focusing on the consultation phase, making doctors or nurse practitioners consultation face-to-face which will make the current live video consultation unacceptable... I would like to voice my concerns with this unnecessary change! Once again this is a way to disadvantage those of us living in the country regional areas who cannot afford the time or money to travel to the cities for this treatment or the alternative which would mean the doctor visitng along with the consultant which no doubt will mean added cost passed on to us the consumer/patient! The current skype arrangement has been working well & should not be changed, making it both too expensive & take away the current comfortable, personal touch that exists. There is nothing to be gained by making this ridiculous change! I urge the medical board (AHPRA) to reconsider this decision & have some consideration for the majority who disapprove this change for once! Thanks.. - Merrilyn

565	04-29-2015	Leisha	Burke	Mildura	Australia	As a Salon owner, our Nurse Practitioner Trish Matheson has exceeded her recommendation from Dr MCurdy of anti-aging, Melbourne. Not one complaint or adverse reaction. Professional, thorough with consultation, including Skype sessions, extensive records of history and exceptional communication and Skill of procedures. Trish has created a well established clientele that trust her advice, giving complete disclosure of adverse reactions. The costs involved with clients traveling and cosmetic procedures to a Cosmetic Doctor are prohibitive and far too intimidating. Trish is welcoming professional and clients find her help them to form a positive self image.

802	5/12/2015	Wendy	Milne	Bunbury	Australia	The training for the cosmetic nurses is rigorous and they should not be targeted overall for the few cowboys in the profession that do not meet the standards. A ridiculous waste of resources to have a Dr in attendance for practice. I don not believe that this is being considered for anything else other than Medical staff not wanting to have competition with Nurse injectors.
803	5/12/2015	Anthoula	Maniatis	Prahran	Australia	so phone orders in hospitals, nurses administrating immunisations, nurses administrating narcotics without the presence of doctors is ok but this is not?? Bit hypocritical is it not???

896	05-28-2015	David	Gomez	Melbourne	Australia	THIS is so hyped up and misinformed - the community issue is all about patient safety and the setting and context of Schedule 4 medical treatments, not who administers the treatments. IT is not about nurses being "hand maidens" to doctors. The professional cosmetic nurses will simply align themselves with medical practitioners and medical clinics and move away from the retail environments of salons, nail bars and home settings.

899	05-28-2015	Peter	Edwards	Kew	Australia	I can't imagine this would be an issue if cosmetic injectable treatments were claimable on medicare. I don't think we would see a doctor performing these treatments at all. It would be willingly left to the nurses and there would be no turf war at all.
