

From: Dr.Andrew Bryant
Sent: Sunday, 5 April 2015 12:02 PM
To: medboardconsultation
Subject: Feedback

Dear Medical Board

It seems to me that anti-obesity interventions are now being done frequently on those who are not obese (ie BMI < 30). The marketing for these procedures looks like cosmetic surgery to me. The high risk of complications in people without a true medical indication, such as metabolic syndrome, causes me some concern.

Yours

Andrew Bryant
Gastroenterologist
Brisbane